On January 15th we had the privilege of piloting our new early math training in Spanish for parents of children enrolled in Head Start. The training was delivered to parents and the turnout was remarkable. Over 30 parents attended (all but 2 families were Spanish speaking) and all parents participated in activities designed to help improve their children's early math skills at home.

Our goal with this project is to educate and train parents on best practices for building early math and literacy skills at home, and also empower parents to become active participants in their child's education in years to come.

We will be offering a similar training (the focus will be on literacy and math) in February at the Hemingway Preschool (Blaine County School District). This training is being funded through WOW Projects and will be provided to all parents of preschool and kindergarten aged students enrolled at Hemingway.
